If you give a monopoly over internet service by phone lines to the phone company, you will guarantee high prices and inferior service for consumers. This will lead me, and, I'm sure, others, to abandon internet use altogether and will hurt our nation's economy in the long run.